Simplifying the Operations.

Twenty-three operations are said to be necessary in the washing and ironing of collars. But in "operating" on ours the ladies seem to use only two; just tear and rip them.

FASHION HINT

This charming costume has been designed for southern wear and should make them sit up and give a look along the southern beaches. ## MELROSE DISCUSSES GOVERNMENT MERITS

REV. MELROSE, BEFORE UNITED CONGREGATIONS, SAYS MORE COMMISSION FORM IS MORE DEMOCRATIC THAN ALDERMANIC SYSTEM.

DEPLORES CLASS ISSUE

"We Have Tasks to Accomplish. Let Us Do Them Faithfully and Well." Is Advice Given in Regard to Government.

A large audience which taxed the capacity of the Baptist church, and even filled the balcony, was assembled at the morning union service at 10 o'clock. It was estimated that fully five hundred people were present on that occasion, taking as it did, members from the Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian churches. A vigorous sermon was preached by Rev. J. A. Melrose, who, in the subject, "A Kaiser's Fall, and God's Revue," drew an analogy between the Jewish people and the German people of today. "The German people," he said, "were deeply pious, but their religion was tied up with their national pride. The Kaiser was rushing into the face of God, and might find, in time, that his touch had become leprous."

Occasion was also taken by Rev. Melrose to discuss the merits of the commission form of government, which he said was undoubtedly the more democratic than the old aldermanic system, and to deplore the class issue at this time. "We have tasks to accomplish, let us do them faithfully and well," was the advice given in regard to the day gave a vision of the prophet Isaiah, wherein he saw the destruction of Jerusalem, and issued a warning to his people. It was found that the first chapter and the first ten verses of the sixth chapter. History was defined by the speaker to never repeat itself. "It may go uphill or downhill but never backward. Yet in the Bible," he said, "are timeless truths. Revelations of life seen in every life, and in every age."

"God's book," he said, "is the background of history, and if to the world of today, it would still be vital and true, yesterday, today, tomorrow, and forever."

The speaker drew a vivid picture of the prosperity of Judah at the time of which Isaiah wrote, and of the fall of the kingdom. The young king was bright, wise, and energetic, and came to the throne when he was sixteen years old. But he was an idealist, and he was caught in the world's dominion of which Jerusalem should be the center of power. A sort of Pan-Judaism was the ambition toward which he was tending. He was coveting the divine right of kings, he went to the temple to secure the coveted blessing. As he stood in the sacred place, he was rebuked by the prophet. He rushed out in dismay, and in a few years he was dead.

The thought was emphasized by the speaker that there was a power there in the temple that was infinitely greater than the throne and glory of King Uzziah. The thought of Isaiah standing before the vision of God, childlike in his faith and reverence, answering the question, "Whom shall I send?" with the answer, "Here am I, send me."

The thought was emphasized that the prophets of God were working everywhere through life, but only those who were successful in accomplishing things. Only those whose dynamic force was hatched to machines, and who could take heaven and earth to task in the effort, could accomplish results. The speaker said that we have to have to combat, and it must be met with organized Christianity. "We are one of the emphatic statements made by Rev. Melrose. It was twofold. First, we must not mix politics and religion," it was asserted. "Our gospel must save the world and be in force all the while."

We have much the same sort of world today as in the time of Isaiah. There is the same crisis to be met, and the same call to clean up the waste places, that the remnant of God's people be saved. The thought was brought out that we must not be too sure that America is all right in everything. That was a fault of the Jews—that they were too sure of the power of God. They were also a fault of the German people of today. "In a day when God is loosing the bonds of the oppressed and opening the world, don't think God is with us unless we are with him."

The thought was emphasized that "Behind every throne is the sovereignty of God," and that in our daily actions we are standing not only before the eyes of human folk, but those of the Almighty. The message of Christ as he gave it to men, said the speaker, "was a message of life, which said, 'Behold and change your mind, because the kingdom of heaven is at hand.'"

The speaker drew a picture of Christ, the teacher, the leader of men, the man of sorrows who goes ahead, in the way of life, showing the path that all might follow, and in closing he voiced a plea, that in this day of crises, when we have so much to hope for and to do, that we stand before God and listen to his blessed message, we are able to answer, "Here am I, send me."

During the exercises Rev. Ewing gave the prayer and Rev. Pierson assisted with the announcements. The large union choir under the direction of Prof. Taylor rendered beautiful and appropriate music. The first anthem, "To the King," had a very effective chorus for the male voices, and the other anthem, "I Have Waited for the Lord," contained a solo for Mrs. Wilcox and a duet number for her and Miss Shawvan.

BOYS OF COMPANY M TAKE OUT INSURANCE

All But One in Company Have Taken Out Government War Risk Insurance for Ten Thousand Dollars Each.

Boys of Company "M" fully recognize the value of having government war-risk insurance, every man except one having taken out a policy. They all have taken $10,000, amount allowed to an individual soldier.

It is the government's aim to attain a record of one hundred percent, that is, to have every soldier take out insurance. It is not necessary to name a beneficiary upon applying for the insurance, but the majority of the men are doing so.

For men who entered the service previous to October 15th, they have until April 12th in which to make applications. All other men are allowed 120 days from the date of their enlistment, but this is hard to remember, and it is better to get the insurance now. The men who will be taken in the next draft will have 120 days from the date they are called to secure this great benefit.

OBITUARY

After several years of patient suffering, Addie Lynn passed to the great beyond Feb. 16th at the home of her sister, Mrs. Chas. Ferguson, 607 Bluff street, Beloit. Her disease was a nervous trouble which developed into spinal meningitis. She was a patient in her suffering and never gave up that she would regain her health and walk again.

Addie E. Lynn, daughter of the late George and Mary Lynn, who have both gone on before, was born October 3, 1866, in the town of Center, Wisconsin, where she lived until her marriage to Rev. Lynn of Beloit, Mich., where they spent four years in medical college. After her husband's graduation she returned to Beloit and has since been stricken with the dread disease, diabetes. His health only permitted him to practice three short months, passing away in Jan. 1896. The bereaved husband has been with her parents and with them spent the past twenty years in Beloit, prior to her parents' deaths.

A year ago last November she went to Texas for a few months and returned last October in failing health. She has since been with the sister, Mrs. Ferguson, at whose home she died.

In health she was a natural artist and loved to paint beautiful paintings and works of art in the homes of her relatives and friends. She became a member of the Christian church when but a mere child of fourteen years. She was faithful until the end, which was testified by her patience in her long suffering. Besides her five surviving sisters, Mae Fuller, Lillian, Elsie, Barbara and Lottie, she leaves a number of nieces and nephews, she leaves a host of friends to mourn her loss. She was a devoted member of the Eastern Star, No. 77 of Beloit, holding different offices in the chapter. The Rev. Bill of the Baptist church of Beloit is going to the home of the bereaved ones and Mrs. Foster sang beautifully "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Crossing the Bar." Her body was tenderly consigned to the city vault where it will rest until such time when it will be removed to Bethel cemetery at Center. Many beautiful flowers testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS OF THREE COUNTIES ORGANIZE FOR WORK

Breeders From Rock, Dane and Green Counties Organize Association to Promote Better Grade of Holstein Cattle.

At an enthusiastic meeting of Holstein breeders at Evansville, Saturday afternoon, the Tri-County Holstein Breeders' association was organized. Another meeting will be held next Saturday afternoon at one o'clock in Fisher's hall, at which time organization plans will be completed.

The territory to be embraced by the association is comprised of the northwestern part of Rock county, the southern part of Dane, and the northern portion of Green. The new association will not infringe on any other breeders' organizations in any of these counties, it being merely the plan of localizing the work, allowing Evansville breeders to hold meetings in that city, thus saving them trips to Janesville and places where other meetings are held.

The organizers of the association are enthusiastic over the plans which are being made and great results are predicted in this connection. A club of pure bred Holstein cattle will be started and in which there will be a large number of entrants.

It is planned to hold a sale at the county fair grounds this year, which is expected to stimulate the breeders to their best efforts.

Julius Rogers, junk dealer on South Riverside, was fined $5 and costs in the municipal court this morning by Judge Maxfield and has been given sixty days in which to close out his business and leave the city for his actions while conducting the business. ## Just Folks

THE SPRING.

This spring will bring the green again,
The birds their wings will preen again,
And joys that made us happy once
Will call to us once more;
The skies will spread their blue again,
The world will seem like new again,
But still it will not be the spring
That was in the heart of yore.
It will not be the spring of old,
The spring we knew when youth was bold,
And peace was dancing round our doors,
Where children romped in play,
For past the green of every tree
Borend the tulips we shall see,
The blood red fields of Flanders,
Where
Our sons must face the fray.

The spring will bring the rains again,
The children at the panes again
Will press their little faces white
And hunger for the sun;
The robins red will sing again
The bees will take to wing again
And up the budding maple trees
The sap will start to run,
But over the where all is strife,
The spring will wake the guns to life,
The song birds' notes will not be heard
Above the cannonade
And mothers here will view with dread
The gentle sunshine overhead
And wonder if their boys are safe
Amid the havoc made.

The spring will start the guns again,
'Twill rouse the hate of Huns again,
The blood-stained hands that winter
Will scatter death once more;
And yet no spring shall come again
When men shall march to drum again,
For nations shall dwell upon the earth
When this mad thing is o'er,
Our sons are there, erect and straight
To quell the carnival of hate
And peace shall bless the arms they bear
And love shall crown the dead;
Their strength shall win the old-time
Soon merrily the birds shall sing
And mothers shall rejoice to see
The blue skies overhead.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:—
I would just like to say that I belong to the class of people who are exceedingly small all the time.
But I at present, possess good health, a willingness to work, and best of all, a right mind, and a sense of justice.
I never, no, never, would vote for a system of government that was represented by the type of men who are in the city of Janesville.
When men give their consent to be led around by this type of man, they are in a position to be led around by the constructive forces rule. The serpent is still in the bed because these men are afraid to show it for fear of the constructive forces rule.
If we change our present form of government, we will get stung and stung badly.
This is a poisonous snake! Take heed! It is too late! Let the constructive forces rule!

A TAXPAYER.

To the Editor:—
The abandonment of the commission form of government, which has already been suggested in the city of Janesville, will not only make the city government completely democratic and save the salaries of the commissioners but will also mean an end to the stagnation which the stalwart influence at work in the city has accomplished through its favored and favored group of legislators. Janesville, in company with other Wisconsin cities, may eventually get the opportunity of adopting an even more effective and more democratic form of government now in vogue in eastern cities.
Under the aldemanic system the masses of the people will be represented through the opportunity which the smaller election districts or wards afford for the choosing of representatives from among their own number. All sections of the city will then have an equal voice in the government.
The voters of Janesville are face to face with the great opportunity of overthrowing with a decisive blow the subtle influences which very noticeably favor the present regime and which always have been against the growth of the city. Janesville has its choice to awaken from the trance with which the clever aristocrats have hypnotized it and to become a greater and more prosperous city.
After the working classes of the city succeed in overthrowing the present system tomorrow the next step for them to take will be the selection of their candidates for mayor and aldermen who are "live wires" and really want the city to grow and prosper. Their work must still go on to insure the election of progressive men because the old stalwart crowd will also have its candidates in the ring.
Janesville must have more conventions in order that outside people may have occasion to come to the city and see all its natural advantages. A hearty welcome must be extended to all visitors and there must be no more for all time that sinister kind of city spirit which stops the holding of a circus parade, disappointing all the children of the community and giving Janesville a bad reputation for hospitality and friendliness among the great number of strangers who are attracted on such an occasion.
The new spirit which will invigorate the city with the complete overthrow of the stalwart influence will make it possible for more of the young people who have grown up in the city to find positions which will result in advancement. Instead of being obliged to leave their home town. At every Christmas time when the countless numbers of young people return to their homes for a visit the citizens are face to face with the proof that there is something wrong with Janesville.
With the advent of the new spirit and the establishment eventually of some new prosperous concerns the ultra conservative manufacturing plants now in the city will be forced to raise the wages of their employees to a scale corresponding with those paid in other prosperous cities. The workmen can finally begin to make their influence felt in a substantial way.
The opportunity is offered next Tuesday to give Janesville its awakening. Let the progressive voters only take the trouble to go to the polls and there will be an end of capitalist and stalwart control.

GARDNER KALVELAGE.

NOTE BY THE EDITOR:

The above communication by Gardner Kalvelage, who has been a resident of Janesville for many years, is being published in order to bring about the change of government might be typical of the thoughts of the entire campaign that is being waged here.
A cry to create a class feeling. The masses against the classes. It is in French officers find the Americans attentive pupils when gas mask instruction is the order of the day. The desire to see the U. The steel helmets, too, are new to the boys, but they "get the hang" of them rapidly. The photos are of U. S. marines "over there."

American soldiers aboard a transport bound for over there.

These American soldiers sailing for duty in France won't let submarines worry them while on the trip. ## BRITISH LION REALLY SCOTCH Fergus the First of Scotland, as Proved by the Records, Took the Animal as Device.

The British Lion is not British, after all, in the broad sense, but strictly speaking, Scottish. This, of course, sounds like a contradiction, and it is. But it seems that, officially, birds and animals as national emblems are not always the ones most favored or thought by all the most appropriate. It is a curious condition of things.

A writer in the London Graphic calls attention to the case of the "British" lion, for instance. Fergus I of Scotland, the records show, took the lion as a device long before English Couer de Lion, while the three little beasts in the English quarters of the national shield are properly leopards, not lions.

Nor is that all. While the English make a pictorial parade of the lion, they personify themselves as "John Bull," for the bull is stronger than the lion and more consistently brave and dignified, and it is to their fine cattle the British partly owe the prosperity which the feline monarch has done nothing to help. Indeed, both lion and unicorn have come out badly during this war. An English officer has been killed by a lion and other lions have raided army stores of live stock in Africa, and the rhinoceros, the real unicorn, has shown himself more decidedly pro-German by raiding motor cars carrying British troops, whereas a bull in Belgium, let loose on the approach of the Germans, turned on them and slew many before he fell.

Continental nations have generally played very strong on the eagle, which comes down to them from old Rome, and is certainly a grand type of force. But, after all, modern France takes the cock as the national bird, and not only the pan upon gallus, but the knightly behavior of this most gallant of feathered creatures, makes it most typical of the great nation which, has always been in front, and learned and suffered for the rest of humanity.

CABARET SINGER ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

(By International News.)
Chicago, Feb. 25.—Accused of the murder of Dr. Leon H. Quintman, a cabaret singer well known in Chicago and St. Louis, went to trial before a jury in the criminal court here today. She denied she killed Quintman.
Quintman was slain last August in Miss Dean's apartment here. He had been intimate with Miss Dean for many months.
At the time of the murder, Miss Dean declared that Quintman shot himself in a struggle with her over a pistol. She said Quintman had threatened to shoot himself because she refused to marry him, and that the shot that caused his death was fired while she was seeking to wrest a revolver from him with which he intended to carry out his threat.
Quintman's aged father and his wife, for whose sake Miss Dean alleged she endeavored to have Quintman cease his intimacy with her, declare their belief that the cabaret singer was slain by the cabaret singer. They are expected to be important witnesses at the trial.
The trial is expected to reveal a sensational story of Dr. Quintman's alleged intimacy with Miss Dean.

IN THE HYDROXIDE.
The Hydroxide, moving picture palace was in darkness as "Home from the War in Five Parts" unfolded on the screen.
Herman Slippers, resting his elbow on the arm of his chair, felt the place already occupied by a feminine elbow, which refused to get off.
"The little fellow, she's tryin' to get with me," thought Herman. And he adjusted his tie in the dark and remembered how handsome he was. "Well, of all the nerve," thought Herman, "these here girls, or maybe one of them three muskies." And she powdered her nose in the dark.
"How do you like the picture?" he whispered, directing one of her size eleven feet over one of her size eight. "Kind of sad, ain't it?"
"Yea," she whispered back, "it'd be funnier if there was more comedy in it."
"You're a peach," he breathed. "I can't even see you, but some'n tells me you're a peach."
"Oh, I just kiss you as a kidder," she breathed back.
At that moment the picture ended and the lights went up. Each took a good look.
"Good night!" thought Herman Slippers. And he moved over five seats to the left.
"The looks like some'n the cat bringin' in," thought Concorina. And she moved over five seats to the right. And the lights went out again and "Their Deal and Dumb Love" began to unwind on the screen.

"Father, can you hear me?"
"Yes."
"I have been a bad daughter to you, I am sorry. It is late now to tell you, but I am sorry. Can I do anything?"
"Yes," he said, with difficulty. "You want to see him?"
"No."
She knew what he meant by that. He would have the boy remember him as he had seen him last.
"You are anxious about him?"
"Very anxious," she said.
"Listen, father," she said, stooping over him. "I have been hard and cold. Perhaps you will grant that I have had two reasons for it. But I am going to do better. I will take care of him and I will do all I can to make him happy. I promise."
Perhaps it was relief. Perhaps even then the thought of Annuletta's tardy and certain-to-be bungling efforts to make Ferdinand William Otto happy amused him. He smiled faintly.
Nikky received a note from Hedwig late that afternoon. It was very brief:

Tonight at nine o'clock I shall go to the room beyond Hubert's old room, for air.
— HEDWIG.

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary multifold coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, flaky and easy to manage.

You can get multifold coconut oil at any pharmacy, or every chemist, and a few families for months.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—
Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, nervous feeling, all our efforts ineffective, buy one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets tonight for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep the pink of condition. 19c and 25c per box. All druggists.

"Never Let Me Go, Nikky," She Whispered.

ing to look at her, but with his eyes fixed on the irregular sky-line of the city roofs, he told her many things, of his promise to the king, of the danger, imminent now and very real, of his word of honor not to make love to her, which he had broken.

Hedwig listened, growing cold and still, and drawing away a little. She listened, even as he pleaded against his own heart, treacherous arms still folded. And if she saw his arms and not his eyes, it was because she did not look up.

Halfway through his eager speech, however, she drew her light wrap about her and turned away. Nikky could not believe that she was going like that, without a word. But when she had disappeared through the window, he knew, and followed her. He caught her in Hubert's room, and drew her savagely into his arms.

But it was a passive, quiescent, and trembling Hedwig who submitted, and then, feeling herself, went out through the door into the lights of the corridor. Nikky flung himself, face down, on a shrouded couch and lay there, his face buried in his arms.

Olga Loschek's last hope was gone.

On the day of the carnival, which was the last day before the beginning of Lent, Prince Ferdinand William Otto awakened early. The palace still slept, and only the street sweepers were about the streets. Prince Ferdinand William Otto sat up in bed and yawned. This was a special day, he knew, but at first he was too drowsy to remember.

Then he knew—the carnival! A delightful day, with the place full of people in strange costumes—peasants, lumps, jesters, who cut capers on the grass in the park. Little girls in procession, wearing costumes of fairies with gauze wings, students who paraded and blew noisy horns, even horses decorated, and now and then a dog dressed as a dancer or a soldier.

He yawned again, and began to feel hungry. He decided to get up and take his own bath. There was nothing like getting a good start for a gala day. And, since with the crown prince to decide was to do, which is not always a royal trait, he took his own bath, being very particular about his ears, and not at all particular about the rest of him. Then, as Oskar having yet appeared with fresh garments, he ducked back into bed again, quite bare as to his small body, and snuggled down in the sheets.

Lying there, he planned the day. There were to be no lessons except fencing, which could hardly be called a lesson at all, and as he now knew the "Gettysburg address," he meant to ask permission to recite it to his grandfather. To be quite sure of it, he repeated it to himself as he lay there:

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Late in the morning Nikky took him to the roof. "We can't go out, old man," Nikky said to him, rather startled to discover the unhappiness in the boy's face. "But I've found a place where we can see more than we can here. Suppose we try it?"

"Why can't we go out? I've always gone before."

"Well," Nikky temporized, "they've made a rule. They make a good many rules, you know. But they said nothing about the roof."

"The roof?"
"The roof. The thing that covers us and keeps out the weather. The roof, highness," Nikky alternated between formality and the other extreme with the boy.

"It slants, doesn't it?" observed his highness doubtfully.

"Part of it is quite flat. We can take a ball up there, and get some exercise while we're about it."

As a matter of fact, Nikky was not altogether unselfish. He would visit the roof again, where for terrible, wonderful moments he had held Hedwig in his arms. On a pilgrimage, indeed, like that of the crown prince to Etzel, Nikky would visit his shrine.

So they went to the roof. One could see the streets crowded with people, could hear the soft blare of distant horns.

"The scenic railway is in that direction," observed the crown prince, leaning on the balustrade. "If there were no buildings we could see it."

"Right here," Nikky was saying to himself. "At this very spot. She held out her arms, and I—"

"It looks very interesting," said

Ugly, Unsightly Pimples Are Signals of Bad Blood

Give Heed to the Warning.

Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from Nature that your blood is sluggish and impoverished. Sometimes they fortell eczema, boils, blisters, scaly eruptions and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

They mean that your blood needs S. S. S. to purify it and cleanse it of these impure accumulations that can cause unlimited trouble. This remedy is the greatest vegetable blood purifier known, and contains no minerals or chemicals to injure the most delicate skin.

Go to your drugstore, and get a bottle of S. S. S. today, and get rid of those unsightly and disgusting pimples and other skin irritations. And it will cleanse your blood thoroughly. If you wish special medical advice, you can obtain it without charge by writing to Medical Director, 29 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

Prince Ferdinand William Otto. "Of course we can't see the costumes, but it is better than nothing."

"I kissed her," Nikky was thinking, his heart swelling under his very best tonic. "Her head was on my breast, and I kissed her. Last of all, I kissed her eyes—her lovely eyes."

"The Scenic Railway is in That Direction."

"If I fell off here," observed the crown prince in a meditative voice, "I would be smashed to a jelly, like the child at the Crystal Palace."

"But now she hates me," said Nikky's heart, and dropped about the distance of three buttons. "She hates me. I saw it in her eyes this morning. Oh, Heaven!"

"We might as well play ball now," Prince Ferdinand William Otto turned away from the parapet with a sigh. This strange quiet that filled the palace seemed to have attacked Nikky too. Otto hated quiet.

They played ball, and the crown prince took a lesson in curves. But on his third attempt, he described such a compound curve that the ball disappeared over an adjacent part of the roof, and although Nikky did some blood-curdling climbing along gutters, it could not be found.

It was then that the Majordomo, always a marvelous figure in crimson and gold, and never seen without white gloves—the Majordomo bowed in a window, and observed that if his royal highness pleased, his royal highness' luncheon was served.

In the shrouded room inside the windows, however, his royal highness paused and looked around.

"I've been here before," he observed. "These were my father's rooms. My mother lived here, too. When I am older, perhaps I can have them. It would be convenient on account of my practicing curves on the roof. But I should need a number of balls."

He was rather silent on his way back to the schoolroom. But once he looked up rather wistfully at Nikky.

"If they were living," he said, "I am pretty sure they would take me out today."

Olga Loschek had found the day one of terror. The failure of her plan as to Nikky and Hedwig was known to the countess the night before. Hedwig had sent for her and faced her in her boudoir, very white and calm.

"He refuses," she said. "There is nothing more to do."

"Refuses?"
"He has promised not to leave Otto."

Olga Loschek had been incredulous, at first. It was not possible. Men in love did not do these things. It was not possible, that, after all, she had failed. When she realized it, she would have broken out in bitter protest, but Hedwig's face warned her.

"He is right, of course," Hedwig had said. "You and I were wrong, countess. There is nothing to do—or say."

Dinner Stories

"Don't move or I'll shoot."
"All right, my friend," replied Mr. Duhwaite, who was surprised by a burglar in his house. "Would you mind if I called my wife downstairs?"

"No. She's been expecting a visit from a burglar for the last twenty years, and I just wanted her to see what one looks like."

Much has been heard late concerning cipher messages; but if you were in mid-Atlantic and wished to send a "wireless" to your husband and tell him—with all respect, to economy—that the weather was perfect, your health good, food satisfactory, cabin comfortable, passengers congenial, what cipher would you invent? Could it be packed into two words?

A lady who crossed from New York lately, on some war work mission, did it in a twinkling. The husband she had left behind she knew would be playing poker every evening at the club, so she chose a time when he would just be in the thick of it to send him the all-inclusive message of perfect satisfaction: "Royal Flush," which is the best hand a poker player can hold.

"Tom, dear," said Mrs. Youngbride, as they sat down to dinner. "I did just what you told me."

"You mean about economizing?"

"Yes. Instead of buying sirloin steak I bought a porterhouse. Isn't nearly so large, you know."

A primary teacher, admonishing little Ann, who usually was a model child, for misconduct, said:

"I thought I had a little angel in the room. Now where is she?"

Little Betty, on the other side of the room, looked up meekly and shyly answered: "Here I is."

Mothers! Here's Something New For Croup and Cold Troubles

An External Treatment That Replaces Internal "Dosing." You Can Let the Children Run Outdoors in All Weathers and Get Their Needed Fresh Air and Exercise.

Growing children need plenty of fresh air and outdoor exercise and this exposure is bound to cause some colds. These colds should not be neglected, and yet, mothers know that constant "dosing" is bad for the delicate stomachs of children.

The best protection is plenty of fresh air in the bedroom, and at the first signs of trouble a prompt application of the Southern external "vapor" treatment, Vick's VapoRub. You simply rub it well over the throat and chest, and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

Leave the covering loose around the neck, as the body heat releases medicated vapors that are inhaled all night long, loosening the phlegm and opening the air passages. In addition, VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness in the chest. Usually croup is relieved within 15 minutes and colds over night.

The local druggists realize the value of an external treatment, especially in the case of small children, and in the interest of their customers, are offering VapoRub in any of the day's trials. If you are not delighted with the results, the purchase price will be refunded.

One way and the only way in Wisconsin to elect a patriotic citizen must vote in the Democratic primaries to nominate good men and then support them to the last minute the polls are open on the 5th day of the next month.

This must be done openly. Sedition and treason must be denounced from every rostrum in Wisconsin and every man of character and patriotism must not shirk his duty as bravely in private as in public. For one I will be glad to see a Republican like Guy D. Cofe, Mr. C. G. Johnson, Mr. W. J. H. H. or any other man, permit himself to be nominated for governor on such a Democratic ticket and let the senatorial nomination go to Joseph E. Davies, Patrick Murray or some other logical Republican. There will be nothing accomplished and no hope of better things for Wisconsin is possible short of a militant uprising of this sort. With a party like this the cause of Wisconsin can be redeemed.

An Economy Event of Supreme Importance

Dollar Day Wednesday, February 27th, 1918

An astonishing list of wanted articles specially priced for this ONE DAY ONLY. The power of a dollar was never so great before at THE BIG STORE. This Dollar Day Sale is no hurriedly schemed event. Its details were planned carefully. This sale would be without significance if prices were regular. But they are not every day prices. They are once-in-a-long-time prices. We might call it a profitless event, as practically all things offered are offered at cost—in some cases less than cost. This explains why the sale is for one day only. Believe us, the values are amazing and may never be duplicated. Plan your list of purchases now, and BE ON HAND early. Some assortments will sell out before noon.
